Monks Granted Asylum, Guard Is Tightened

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The U.S. Embassy imposed tight security precautions today after granting political asylum to three Buddhist monks, including a top leader of Buddhist opposition to the Vietnamese government.

The embassy admitted the monks Sunday night, risking further friction with authorities of South Viet Nam.

Well-placed sources identified the high ranking monk as Thich Tri Quang, 44, second in command of South Viet Nam's General Buddhist Association and generally regarded as the most wanted Buddhist leader.

The three monks had eluded authorities since the government cracked down on Buddhist opposition Aug. 21, raided pagodas and imposed martial law.

Clothed in ceremonial yellow robes, they arrived at the U.S. Embassy by taxi at sunset.

"Let me in. Help me," Tri Quang yelled in English.

One monk dashed inside the embassy door but a Vietnamese policeman collared the other two. Witnesses said U.S. Marine guards tore the policeman away to let the other monks enter.

A half-hour earlier, two other Buddhist monks voluntarily left the U.S. aid mission where they gained asylum 12 days ago. The pair disregarded warnings from security officers that they might be arrested.

Tight security prevailed at the embassy and only top officials were permitted to enter during the night. Embassy officials said they would not permit interviews or pictures of the monks.

Tri Quang and his two companions, Le Ma Chi and Tran Van Nham, were reported lodged in a conference room and provided with cots, blankets and food.

"We are notifying the Vietnamese government that we have these monks and we are telling them their names," an embassy spokesman said.

The monks who left the aid mission, Thich Hue Thoi and Thich Kim Muon, embraced U.S. Marine guards before taking a taxi to the Quang pagoda. The monks told newsmen they were unimportant in the Buddhist movement and had sought refuge in the U.S. aid mission only to escape police.

The predominantly Roman Catholic government, which denies Buddhist charges of religious discrimination, continued to release monks and nuns arrested in the Aug. 21 crackdown.

About 100 were released Sunday, nuns at Xa Loi pagoda said. The government also released about 1,400 students held at a military camp since last weekend.

Ban Treaty Goes Before the Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treaty to ban all but underground nuclear testing goes to the Senate this week with debate expected over whether to attach a reservation spelling out U.S. rights to use nuclear weapons in case of war.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., served notice that he will offer the reservation which is favored by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, but opposed by President Kennedy on grounds that it is not necessary.

The committee, which approved the treaty by a 16-1 vote last Thursday, is to submit its formal report to the Senate Tuesday or Wednesday, recommending ratification without reservation.

The committee's report will include an "understanding" of the proposed reservation that the United States will be the sole judge as to when and where it will use its nuclear weapons in the event of any armed aggression. Supporters believe this would answer the point raised by Eisenhower.

Long's opposition to the treaty is in line with that of Dr. Edward Teller, one of the developers of the hydrogen bomb, who repeated Sunday his view that the test-ban agreement might endanger world peace by giving the Soviets the edge in perfecting an antimissile defense.

Will Honor Labor Day Founder

PENNSAUKEN, N.J. (AP)—Labor leaders pay their respects today to Peter McGuire, founder of Labor Day, at a special ceremony in Arlington cemetery here where he is buried.

McGuire, who died in 1960, founded the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. It was his suggestion that a day should be set aside annually to honor the working man that prompted greater efforts leading to legislation legalizing the holiday.

Ceremonies in Tribute to Working Man

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A parade on Fifth Avenue in New York City today highlights the nation's Labor Day ceremonies under trade union sponsorship.

Many seashore, lakeside, mountain and other resorts were crowded as millions of Americans played or rested on the last day of the long weekend and the last summer holiday.

Baseball games, horse races, yacht club regattas and other sports events held the attention of many from coast to coast.

At Pennsauken, N.J., labor leaders gathered to pay respects to Peter McGuire, the father of Labor Day, in a ceremony at his grave.

McGuire, who lived in Camden, N.J., near Pennsauken, suggested that a day be observed annually to honor the working man.

The first observance was in New York City Sept. 5, 1882—a Tuesday. Two years later, the American Federation of Labor adopted a formal resolution designating the first Monday in September as Labor Day. The federal government and all 50 states have approved that date.

On the eve of the holiday, the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO hailed the efforts of Negroes to win equality and declared this struggle "must and will succeed."

A statement by the department also said the major domestic problem is the need for more jobs.

Sponsors of the New York City parade predicted that more than 100,000 would march. AFL-CIO President George Meany was grand marshal of the parade, sponsored by the New York City Central Labor Council. The theme of full employment and equal opportunity was accented. Many marchers read the same banners they carried in the march on Washington Wednesday.

'Friendly' Red Planes Watch Ship

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Coast Guard cutter is crunched through four feet or more of Arctic Sea ice off the north Siberian coast making oceanographic studies, the Coast Guard says.

Disclosing this Sunday, a Coast Guard spokesman said the Northwind has been under daily but "friendly surveillance" by Soviet planes.

He explained that the ship has been in the Arctic Ocean since July. She started in the Chukchi Sea, west of Point Barrow, Alaska, and smashed through the icy east Siberian Sea into the Laptev Sea. All are off the northern coast of Siberia.

The spokesman said that while the Northwind is carrying out her oceanographic studies within sight of the Siberian coast, it is still some 15 miles outside Soviet territorial waters.

The Coast Guard announcement about the Northwind comes on the heels of congressional complaints that Russian fishing vessels have been operating close to Cape Cod and Florida's East Coast.

Group After Rockefeller Assistant

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Republican Chairman William L. Spicer said Sunday that action taken against Winthrop Rockefeller Saturday by the state Republican Executive Committee was aimed at Rockefeller's assistant, Everett A. Ham Jr.

The committee met Saturday at Little Rock and voted to limit Rockefeller's activities in the party to those of his post as Republican National Committeeman from Arkansas.

Spicer said resentment of Ham brought on the action. Ham, a personal employee of Rockefeller, has been sent by Rockefeller throughout the state to stir some life into the party.

Spicer said Ham was not an elected official "in any capacity" in the party and that he had been the "root of considerable turmoil for many months."

He said that a number of persons had approached Rockefeller about Ham but that Rockefeller insisted that Ham was doing a good job.

Spicer said Rockefeller had been "hard headed" about the matter so party members decided to take official action.

At its meeting Saturday, the Executive Committee passed five resolutions designed to define the duties of the national committeeman and state chairman, Spicer said.

The resolutions would remove the state party headquarters from the Tower Building in Little Rock, prohibit the national committeeman from directing the operations of the state office and remove any member of the state executive committee who failed to adhere strictly to party rules.

The committee voted 11-10 on most of the resolutions with Spicer casting the tie-breaking vote. On resolutions directed at Rockefeller, Rockefeller abstained and the vote was 10-9.

Another Race Flare-up at Plaquemine

By JOE DABBY

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP)—Negroes ignored the pleas of their leaders to go home Sunday night and staged another freedom demonstration in this racially troubled south Louisiana town.

City police—aided by mounted state troopers—used tear gas and jets of water from high pressure hoses to break up the melee, which nearly turned into a full-scale race riot when white on-lookers began yelling at Negroes and shouting encouragement to police.

"String 'em up now," shouted the whites as police drove the Negroes away from Court House Square. Negroes, in turn, hurled bricks and stones at police and the crowd of whites.

There were at least two dozen arrests.

Several state policemen were hit by stones and bricks.

Negroes poured into hospitals for treatment after being overcome by tear gas. Several were hurt jumping through the glass windows of a church when police lobbed tear gas shells into the building.

Among those arrested were Dr. Bertrand Tyson, a Negro physician who has been leading the equality demands of his people, and Ronnie Moore, a young Congress of Racial Equality field secretary.

The fresh demonstrations came after U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West of Baton Rouge issued a temporary restraining order—his second—banning racial protests.

Judge West said it was his belief "irreparable damage and injury will more than likely occur in the absence of such a restraining order."

Five hundred to 600 Negroes marched silently from the Plymouth Rock Baptist church, where a freedom rally was under way in mid-evening. They filed past Court House Square, where Sheriff C. A. Griffin Jr. looked on but took no action. Then they marched back to the church.

A half hour later, the Negroes started another march but were met by police who told them of the federal order.

"Go home now," said Rudy Lombard, a CORE worker, who climbed on a car to talk to the Negroes.

"We don't want to go home," yelled several. "We won't go home."

A few ran down the street tossing rocks at nearby houses—a mixed neighborhood. Several windows were broken.

Then they surged toward the square—center of this Mississippi River town of 7,500.

The officers pushed the demonstrators back to the church with tear gas and repeated blasts from high pressure hoses on a fire truck.

In the din, Negroes could be heard shouting, "We want freedom." White onlookers yelled, "Let's wipe them out."

In a demonstration Saturday night, state troopers used electric cattle prods to scatter about 150 Negroes who were marching to protest the arrest of 38 demonstrators earlier in the day.

Holiday Death Toll Likely to Hit Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths across the nation since the start of the extended Labor Day weekend, with a sharp upward trend Sunday, appeared headed today for a record toll for the holiday.

Safety experts, noting the heavy toll on the highways Sunday, said if the trend continues, the final total will far exceed pre-holiday estimates.

The traffic death toll, since the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday was 396, including more than 180 Sunday. The National Safety Council had estimated 430-520 persons might be killed in auto accidents during the 78-hour period which ends at midnight tonight.

However, council officials revised their estimates and said "if the present pace of traffic deaths continues, the final toll could reach 625 to 630." The record high toll for a Labor Day weekend is 501, set last year. The lowest for the holiday weekend is 246, recorded in 1946.

The final long weekend of the summer lured millions of motorists to the highways. Safety experts said the heaviest travel of the weekend was expected today, with the homeward-bound motorists. Council officials have estimated that motorists will travel a total of 8.4 billion miles during the three-day holiday period, a record high for a Labor Day weekend.

In addition to the traffic deaths, 16 persons lost their lives in boating accidents and 31 others

Unused Tax Sources for State Cited

ATLANTA (AP)—Arkansas has $19 million in untapped tax resources which might be used for educational purposes, the Southern Regional Education Board said in a report released this week.

The report, based on a study by James W. Martin, a public finance specialist, and Kenneth E. Quindry of the University of Kentucky, says that 16 Southern states have at their disposal untapped tax resources, totaling $1,855,700,000.

Martin and Quindry say these revenues generally have four sources: general sales and gross receipts taxes, property taxes, individual income taxes and corporate income taxes.

The $19 million in additional funds available to Arkansas, the report says, is $10 million in property taxes and $9 million in individual income taxes.

It lists no untapped corporate income taxes or general sales and gross receipts taxes for the state. The study was aimed at finding new sources of income which could be used to meet the south's growing educational needs.

According to a study by Professor Seymour Harris of Harvard University, Arkansas is making a great effort to obtain funds for education.

He has given Arkansas a "B" rating for its effort. At the same time, he says the state's demand for higher education is worth an "A-plus" rating, meaning that 5.3 per cent of the population is of college age.

However, the state's achievement in providing higher education received a "D-plus" because only 26.6 per cent of the people of college age are actually in college.

The state's ability to provide funds was also given a "D-plus" rating because the state has a relatively low per capita income.

The "B" for effort was attributed to the state's taxation rate which ranked fourth in the 18 southern states.

With a per capita income of $1,341, Arkansas has a state and local tax rate of 93.74 per $1,000 of personal income, the report said.

Only Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma had higher rates.

Harris says that many Southern states must make a relatively greater effort to provide funds for public education because they have fewer resources from which to obtain funds and because they must provide more public education than many others.

Quindry points out however, that if taxpayers contribute in one form, they do not have the funds they already have paid out to pay in another form.

He adds that any state, subject to minor economic reservations, can successfully use additional taxes which experience in other states commends.

Rioters at Resort Spots Scattered

By GORDON G. MACNAB
SEASIDE, Ore. (AP) — Police and National Guardsmen swinging nightsticks scattered hundreds of rioting, cat-calling young men and women from this resort area sandy beach Sunday night.

Then they spent the early hours today chasing down scores of scattered reports of mischief and damage. It was the second year of Labor Day weekend rioting at Seaside.

The rioting occurred as reports of similar disturbances were received from the Atlantic Coast — at Hampden Beach, N.H., and Ocean City, Md.

The chanting, jeering cursing crowd on the Oregon beach at mid-evening was estimated variously from 500 to 1500. It gathered as darkness came on, following a mid-afternoon skirmish in which police broke up massed rioters into small groups.

As night fell, and a full moon came up, the crowd stood on the sand facing the turnaround — the end of this resort town's main street. Police stood on the turn-

Woman Killed in Accident

MULDROW, Okla. (AP)—Mary Ebbott, 18, of Fort Smith, was killed Saturday when the car in which she was riding went out of control on U.S. Highway 64 three miles west of Muldrow.

The Highway Patrol said she was thrown from the car and it rolled over her. She was the daughter of Lt. Col. William F. Ebbott of Ft. Chaffee Ark.

Three other persons were injured when told to go home at the Saturday midnight curfew.

As the numbers grew, a thin line of state police carrying nightsticks walked out and the crowd fell back. Soon the crowd pushed forward and the police charged. The crowd broke and ran. This went on time and again. Finally the crowd scattered for good.

Then came reports of little groups breaking windows and causing other damage in widely scattered areas.

drowned. The over-all accident death toll was 443.

There have been several multiple-fatal traffic accidents since the start of the holiday. Sunday five residents of Illinois were killed in a collision near Rockville, Ind. Four persons lost their lives in a head-on crash near Martinsville, Va.

Council officials said that the traffic death toll for a normal non-holiday weekend at this time of year would total 360. An Associated Press survey of traffic deaths during a non-holiday weekend period of 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 16 to midnight Monday, Aug. 19, showed 461 highway fatalities. The total compared to 386 deaths during the Labor Day weekend of 1961.

ATHEIST LEADER — Mrs. Madalyn Murray, the Maryland mother who opposed Bible reading in the public schools and won her case in the Supreme Court, has arrived in Stockton, Kans., where she proposes to set up an atheist center. On 160 acres of farmland deeded by Carl Brown of Stockton, former Kansas legislator, Mrs. Murray plans to build a college, radio station, home for the aged and other facilities.

SIBENIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — For years the name of most families on the little island of Privic off the coast of this Adriatic town was "Mice—which means Mouse.

The teasing and the jokes about the name finally drove the Mises—or Mouses—to court, where they had the name legally to Misurac.

One family alone refused to join the new Misuracs and proudly retained the old name Mises.

Goldwater to Begin Feeler Campaign

By JACK GILL

AP Political Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next week Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona sets out on a 10 state round of campaigning to trumpet what he calls the "weaknesses of the Kennedy administration" and the need for Republican unity.

Goldwater, regarded by many as a leading contender for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said in an interview that in "cries-croaking the nation in the next two months he intends to hear down on Republican differences with President Kennedy."

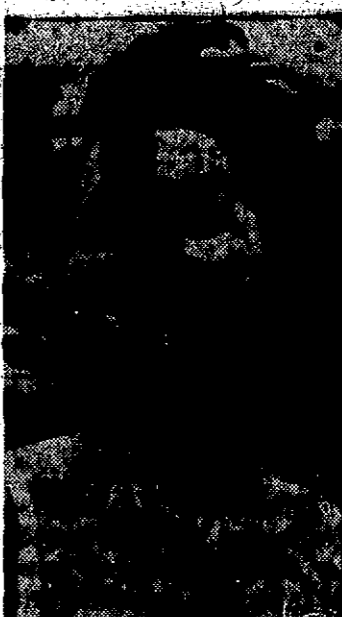

"Any Republican speaking now should, in a very reasoned way, point out the many weaknesses of the Kennedy administration and offer sound Republican alternatives," he said.

"I think we have to back our President when he is right. But if we believe he is taking the wrong course, we should say so. In this, though, I don't want to become just the part of opposition for opposition's sake."

Goldwater stands in opposition to many major Kennedy proposals. But he said he has not yet made up his mind finally on how he will vote on the limited nuclear test-ban treaty scheduled to come up in the Senate Sept. 9. On that day, the Arizona senator will be opening his fall campaigning in an appearance in Cleveland in behalf of the Ohio Republican finance committee.

college level. Negro students will enter some schools this week for the first time in Little Rock, Hot Springs and Pine Bluff, Ark., and about 20 others will attend already integrated classes.

Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas, Oregon and California.

In his travels Goldwater intends to preach unity among Republicans. He maintains that if they split into factions their 1964 nominee won't have much chance against Kennedy.

This was an apparent reference to recent attacks by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential rival for next year's nomination, on the "radical right" that the governor said was trying to capture Goldwater and the party.

Rockefeller has September speaking dates in Illinois, Virginia and West Virginia, plus his scheduled attendance at a Republican governors' conference in Denver Sept. 14.

Southerners Rough on JFK Program

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has a tendency to political amnesia when his Democrats join Republicans to do him in. He finds it easier to remember what the Republicans did.

He said once Republicans have made "no" a political program, but so have a lot of his Democrats.

The country has in effect three political parties — Democrats, Southern Democrats, and Republicans — just because the Southerners have gone against him so many times.

They operate under the Democratic label but can make the Democratic party's campaign promises look like balloons in a tack factory any time it suits them, which is often, to clasp hands with Republicans.

Two recent examples:

1. Southern Democrats, against Kennedy's civil rights program from the start, are expected to try to filibuster it to death.

2. Just last week they harpooned him when the House voted to cut foreign aid $885 million below what he asked.

Kennedy that same afternoon rushed to denounce the Republicans for the blow. But they could not have done it if a big bunch of Democrats hadn't joined them.

The Democrats have such a majority over the Republicans in both houses of Congress they could put through any program Kennedy wanted — provided they stuck together — even if all the Republicans voted no. They don't stick together.

In the 435-seat House, with three vacancies, Democrats outnumber Republicans 256-176. In the 100-seat Senate the lineup is 67 Democrats, 33 Republicans. On foreign aid in the House this was how the voting went:

Against the cut: 188 (172 Democrats, 16 Republicans); for the cut: 222 (66 Democrats, 156 Republicans). If only 18 of those 66 Democrats had stuck with Kennedy the vote would have been 204 for the cut but 206 against. The over-all aid bill then went to the Senate on a final 224-186 vote.

There would have been no cut. All but three of the 66 Democrats lining up with the Republicans were from Southern or border states. This defection of the South has haunted Kennedy. There was a shining example of it last year.

That was when the Senate, with Democrats outnumbering Republicans 64-36, killed Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged. That majority of 23 could have swamped the Republicans on any issue.

But this happened on medicare: The vote to kill was 52-43, with 21 Democrats and 31 Republicans doing the killing. All but 4 of the 21 Democrats were Southerners. If just 3 of the 21 had stayed with their party the bill would have carried.

Kennedy made this a campaign issue in the 1962 elections, blaming nearly all the Republicans and a handful of Democrats who joined them for his defeat. It was more than a handful. It was almost a third of all the Senate Democrats.

Not long before the medicare defeat Kennedy made an admission at a news conference which pretty frankly acknowledged the Democratic party is not the single party it pretends to be:

"We should realize that some Democrats have voted with the Republicans for a good 25 years, really since 1938. So we have a very difficult time on a controversial piece of legislation in securing a working majority."

Came the elections. They didn't change much. The Democrats retained just about the same huge majorities, although Kennedy had asked for even bigger ones. He ruefully admitted any time he offers a controversial bill he'll win or lose by three or four votes.

Still, Kennedy won't fight with Congress. He never has. He just complains occasionally, particularly about the Republicans. He said: There is no sense in raising hell and then not being successful.

British Spy Dies in Utter Degradation

EDITOR'S NOTE — Stanley Johnson formerly was a member of The Associated Press staff in Moscow. Here he gives his impressions of Guy Burgess, the British diplomat turned Soviet spy whose defection with fellow diplomat Donald Maclean in 1951 shook London and Washington.

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Guy Burgess, who died in a Moscow hospital Friday, spent the last few years of his life in utter degradation. He was a toothless, physical wreck.

Despised by the Communists for whom he had spied, the former British diplomat eked out the small sums they gave him with an income supplied regularly from his family's fortune in Britain.

Even Donald Maclean, another diplomat with whom he fled in 1951 in a defection that shocked Britain and the United States, would have nothing to do with him.

Burgess, who died of a heart attack at the age of 53 once had position, money, good looks, and was a member of the House of Commons.

He threw it all away and no one has ever found out why. I last saw Burgess at a cocktail party in Moscow just over a year ago. He had no teeth, very little hair, and must have weighed at least 250 pounds.

He was, as usual, drunk and incoherent. He was at the party for one reason: to drink scotch whisky and try to cadge a bottle to take home.

His masters in Moscow never supplied Burgess, a homosexual, with a boy friend who ranked higher than corporal in the Red army.

The two lived in a sordid little apartment where Burgess kept himself drunk on vodka when exchange regulations kept him from getting the scotch he preferred.

For five years after his defection Burgess lived an underground life, hidden by the Soviet spy apparatus from all contact with the West.

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen, I shall be a sophomore in high school this term and want to join a church. My family are atheists and constantly jeer at all religions. I am the only one of six in our household who attends church. Father and Mother refuse to let me go every Sunday. They say it's a waste of time and will warp my thinking.

They also say belonging to a church is like belonging to a club.

most people join for social or business reasons. Is this true? —A Teenager Who Believes

Dear Teenager: May I remind you that atheists, by their very nature, know quite a bit about God, and spend time thinking about God in order to qualify for their standing as anti-Christ, or anti-church. They can't intelligently oppose something they know nothing about.

Suggest to your parents that they try reading, with you, the book by a former atheist and teacher at one of the great English universities, "The Case For Christianity," by C. S. Lewis.

If your parents can successfully argue Mr. Lewis into silence, they will be fully entitled to the rating of "atheists," since Mr. Lewis has been on both sides of the argument with all the force of his considerable intelligence.

When you join a church, you add whatever you are to whatever you find in the church. If you're looking for social contacts, then you help make the church a dating bureau, or a card party center, or dance sponsor.

The church is the easiest club in the world to join. A majority receive all applicants without prejudice. Some people go to church to get warm and listen to organ and choir music. Some go to be seen and to see others. Some go because it's good for business, because it sustains the image of themselves that they'd like to have others accept. Some go for these reasons and stay for the reasons that the church was founded. Others never really do come to a candid, rock-solid understanding of what the church really stands for.

Comfort is the one word that probably describes what many people derive from the church. The fortunate ones get guidance, strength to prevail against misery, joy to share with others who need it in this age, serenity to tide them over vexation and irritation, and a deep, inner courage that keeps them free of compromise with the worst demands of society.

By all means give church a try. What you are when you go, and what you can become after going, will make the church what

It is, or can become—a social club, or a source of dynamic life for you and those within your influence.

Your parents cannot prevent you from attending any church. Freedom to worship according to one's beliefs is guaranteed in the Bill of Rights of our Constitution. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ten Commandments for Happiness."

Dear Helen: My 7-year-old daughter is on the heavy side. Because of this overweight she dreads to start in school again. "I'm ashamed to be seen," she said yesterday.

The teacher she'll have this term tried to reassure her, saying that in time she would slim down. This I doubt for she has been steadily gaining for three years. Our doctor finds no glandular deficiency but suggested I watch what she ate. I've been giving her sensible food, no in-between snacks and nothing before she goes to bed, yet she grows fatter and fatter! It hurts me when I hear her crying at night. She says she doesn't know why God made her so fat. It's got so she no longer takes pleasure in skating, bowling or riding her bike with girl friends because they are smaller and daintier than she. What can I do? —Worried Mother

Dear Mother: Take your daughter, back to your doctor, or to another one, for a complete check-up on her overweight. There are other disturbances besides glandular which might be the cause. Ask the doctor for a detailed diet and make sure she follows it. Also, try to convince her that by cutting out exercise she only makes her problem worse.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Moon Doubles in Two for Dodger Win

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have had a bigger lead than the six-game advantage they have in the National League race today, but the outlook for a World Series in Los Angeles was never brighter.

Because their confidence is high after Sunday's 5-3 victory over San Francisco gave them a three-game lead over the Giants, the Dodgers' California rivals in their most important series of the season so far.

Because the Dodgers have only 27 games left to play, of which 15 are at home.

Because both the second-place Cards and the Giants, now 7½ games behind, have only three more games apiece with the league leaders. Nothing less than a sweep by both St. Louis and San Francisco would figure to disrupt the Los Angeles march toward an October meeting with the Yankees.

St. Louis clung to its slim hopes by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3. Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 6-4. Chicago edged Houston 4-3 and the New York Mets downed Milwaukee 6-4 in 16 innings in other NL games Sunday.

The Yankees advanced closer to the American League championship with a 5-4 triumph over Baltimore. Chicago, 12 games behind, strengthened its second-place hold with an 8-3 triumph over Minnesota. Kansas City edged Los Angeles 4-3 in 10 innings and Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Detroit 6-3 and 3-1.

The Giants, who had won a 12-inning squeaker Saturday night after losing the first two games to Los Angeles, took a 3-2 lead going into the eighth inning Sunday. Harvey Kuenn's sixth inning home run had snapped a 2-2 tie.

When Jim Gilliam singled to open the Dodger eighth against southpaw Billy O'Dell, San Francisco Manager Al Dark called upon right-hander Don Larsen for the third straight day. Tommy Davis singled Gilliam to third and, after Frank Howard fanned, Wally Moon batted for Ken McMullen and doubled both runners home Ron Fairly another pinch hitter, followed with a single to add an insurance run.

The Giants threatened in the ninth but Johnny Podres came in to retire three batters, including Willie Mays, leaving the potential tying runs stranded. Mays had driven in the first Giant run with

McKinley to Find Answer to His Back

By WILL GRIMLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The answer comes today to the question of Chuck McKinley's $50,000 backache.

Is the injury serious enough to jeopardize his bid for the National tennis championship? Is it likely to puncture America's booming hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup?

The nation's No. 1 player, holder of the Wimbledon crown, is scheduled to meet Czechoslovakia's Jiri Javorsky in the second match of the West Side Stadium program, starting at 12 noon EST.

"I intend to play. If I have to hold the racket with both hands," said McKinley.

The chunky cannonballer from San Antonio, Tex., tore a muscle in his back Saturday in the first set of his opening match against Eduardo Zuleta of Ecuador. Only nerve and determination brought him through to a five-set victory.

If McKinley were forced to default, it is estimated the tournament sponsors would be hit to the tune of about $10,000 loss at the gate. It's worth about $50,000 to a country which reaches the Davis Cup challenge round, and America's hopes rest largely with McKinley.

McKinley's health also became a larger factor in America's chances of winning the men's singles championship, an Australian monopoly since 1955, because of the unimpressive play Sunday of Dennis Ralston.

Ralston, seeded No. 3 behind McKinley and Australia's Roy Emerson and a strong title hope, gave a loose and uninspired performance in beating Richard Sorlein, a 39-year-old Philadelphia lawyer who plays only on weekends, 6-2, 8-10, 6-1, 7-5.

Bobcats Practice Under Lights for Opener

By CARTER HARDAGE

Hope Star Sports Writer

Friday night the Bobcats had a scrimmage at Hammons Stadium. The first team defense took on the first team offense. To be fair about it, nobody really won. On the whole, everyone did well. Although there were a few broken plays and a few runners may have slipped through some fingers, everything seems to have gained something from this first game under the lights.

White, the offensive first team, was composed of first and second stringers who do not regularly play defense. Red was the defensive first team.

Since there were to be no kick-offs, White started out with the ball on their own 35-yard line. After the three downs, Jordan punted to the Red 20, where a fair catch was made. Red was able to make one first down, but then lost the ball on downs at their own 44. Burnett took the ball through the line to the 34 and a first down. After a vain for another first down by White, Red took over the ball on their own 25.

Here Mutt Wassell did a little fancy stepping to the 45 and another first. McLarty went into the line for two and on the next play Richard McDowell broke into the open and started galloping for pay dirt. He was overtaken, however, at the 4-yard line and dragged earthward by Virgil McNatt. On the next play, McDowell crashed over guard to come to rest on the 1-foot line. Then lay, Red quarterback Mac McLarty plowed over for the touchdown.

On the next series of White plays, nothing was accomplished and the ball was punted out to the Red 21. The quarter passed. On Red's first play, the halfback received the ball to go around the end, where he was met by White tackle Paul Guerin, who came crashing in with a tackle heard across the field. He immediately fumbled, and Guerin covered the ball. There followed a series of uneventful downs, after which Red took possession on their own 25. On the first play, McLarty kept the ball for ten yards and the first down. After two incomplete passes, Mac again held on to the ball for a romp that carried him to the White 45.

On the next play, White intercepted a pass and brought the ball back to the 37. From there they could make no headway and consequently had to give up the ball. Jordan punted to the 27. In two more plays, McDowell took the ball 47 yards for a TD, but it was called back because of a penalty. White took over but was unable to make any progress before halftime.

Red received possession of the ball after the half, but, unable to move, punted to White's 18. On the next play, Jerry Waller, White's fullback, took the ball out to the 30. Then, given the ball again, Waller, slipping through the clutches of several defenders, sped to the 25. Here, however, White stalled and Red gained possession on downs.

Wassell and McDowell then proceeded to work the ball out to their own 47 in a number of plays, only to have it lost to White on a fumble. The fourth period began.

Unable to move, White punted to the 10. Red also could not drive going, so they punted to the 39. On the next play there was a penalty, and White got the ball, fast and ten on Red's 27. Waller carried the ball four yards and on the next play halfback Johnny Samuels went all the way to the 13. Burnett reached the 7 and then quarterback Buddy Jordan passed to halfback Burness for the touchdown.

On the next play, Red quarterback McLarty kept the ball and went around end for sixty-five yards and a touchdown. After White received the ball, they immediately fumbled to give Red possession deep in their territory. McDowell was able to reach the 25 and McLarty then went on in to the 13. McDowell again took the ball and not to the 11. McLarty then barreled in to the 3, and on the next play, carried it in for the touchdown.

When they again got the ball, White could do nothing with it and had to forfeit it to Red. On second down, McLarty passed to Mutt Wassell, who made a quite a run to the 45, but was to no avail, the game was over.

Although Red had made two more TD's than White, we were later to understand that White had been spotted twelve points, so everybody came out even.

Excitement in Holiday Classic

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—A 90-foot putt that had to break 10 feet dropped for Gary Player.

A booming 235-yard three-wood to within eight feet of the pin brought an eagle 3 for Arnold Palmer.

Two wedge approaches four feet from the cup gave Jack Nicklaus birdies.

This was the main first round excitement Sunday in the $50,000 extravaganza for the trio called the Holiday Golf Classic.

The 36-hole affair winds up today at the 6,382 yards, 35-35-70 par Glen Flora course.

Palmer and Player were tied with 87 and Nicklaus had 68 after the first round Sunday.

The exhibition match is a station stop to Akron for leading money winner Palmer and PGA-Masters champion Nicklaus. They will compete there this weekend against U.S. Open titlist Julius Boros and British Open champion Bob Charles in the World Series of Golf. The winner gets $50,000.

Home Runs by Mantle, Thresh Win for Yanks

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

If anyone has any doubts about just how well off the New York Yankees are, have him consider this—they have a switch-hitting slugger playing center field for a switch-hitting slugger.

The party of the first part is Tom Tresh, a youthful jack-of-many-positions who has been in center for the American League front-runners in place of the party of the second part, injured superstar Mickey Mantle.

Game-legged Mickey and versatile Tom combined Sunday for a burst of home runs that powered the Yankees over Baltimore 5-4. Tresh smacked one right-handed against southpaw Mike McCormick in the seventh inning for the Bombers' first run, then each connected with a man on in the eighth—Mantle as a pinch hitter against McCormick and Tresh batting left-handed against right-handed reliever Dick Hall.

The victory kept the Yankees 12 games ahead of the Chicago White Sox, who strengthened their hold on second place by whipping Minnesota 8-3 with the aid of four unearned runs.

Also in the AL—the hitting of Mike de la Hoz and Woodie Held led Cleveland to a sweep over Detroit, 6-3 and 3-1. Ed Bressoud's single in the 10th inning brought across Boston's winning run in a 4-3 decision over Washington; and Jose Tartabull's triple and a bases loaded walk keyed a four-run ninth inning that gave Kansas City a 7-6 squeaker over Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles Dodgers stayed six games in front in the National League, beating San Francisco 5-3. St. Louis' second-place Cardinals trimmed Philadelphia 7-3. Bill Virdon's grand slam with two out in the last of the ninth lifted Pittsburgh over Cincinnati 6-4. Tim Lincecum's 16th-inning homer enabled the New York Mets to down Milwaukee 4-2; and the Chicago Cubs edged Houston 4-3.

Tresh was the Yankees' shortstop last season until Tony Kubek returned from the Army, then he became the regular left fielder—and wound up the league's Rookie-of-the-Year. He started in left this season but has spent most of his time in center as a replacement for Mantle, who's been out of the regular line-up since June 5 with a broken left foot followed by knee trouble.

McCormick shut out the Yanks on four hits before Tresh opened the seventh with his 22nd homer.

Mick Would Rather Be in Lineup

BALTIMORE (AP)—Pinch homer heroes are all right, you understand, but Mickey Mantle would rather be in the starting line-up.

And the superstar of the New York Yankees may get his wish sometime this week.

"You may wake up tomorrow and see him in the line-up," Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said Sunday after Mantle's two-run pinch homer ignited a four-run eighth inning rally which gave New York a 5-4 decision over the Baltimore Orioles.

Mantle has been out of the Yankee line-up since June 5. He broke a bone in his left foot when his spikes caught in the wire outfield fence at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

The foot has healed, but a loose cartilage in Mantle's left knee has kept him on the sidelines.

By the time he reached the plate, the ovation drowned out the needless formal public address announcement that Mantle was batting for pitcher Tom Metcalf.

Mickey swung at the first pitch from lefty Mike McCormick, and the ball cleared the left field fence—a drive of some 400 feet. The crowd went wild. Mantle grinned as he rounded the bases. The two-run homer by Tom Tresh which won the game was anti-climactic.

The modern bishop of chess was an elephant in the East. In France it became a jester; in Germany, a runner.

The Orioles got the run back in the last of the inning making it 4-1, but it wasn't enough for the Tresh-Mantle combo. Mantle batted for rookie reliever Tom Metcalf in the eighth after a one-out single by Cleve Boyer and homered, then Tresh connected again following a two-out single by Bobby Richardson. Hal Reniff saved Metcalf's first big league victory, retiring the final six Orioles in order. Yankee starter Ralph Terry was tagged for the first three Baltimore runs in the third, two of them riding in on John Olsino's homer.

Indianapolis Downs Travs on 3-Hitter

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Left-hander Frank Kreutzer threw a three-hitter Sunday as Indianapolis defeated the Arkansas Travelers 6-1 in the Travelers final International League series of the season.

In other International League games Sunday Columbus beat Atlanta 6-4 in the first game and Atlanta took the second game 1-0. Richmond defeated Toronto 1-0 in the first game and the Maple Leafs won the second 3-2. Syracuse beat Rochester 6-4 and 7-4 in their double header, and Jacksonville defeated Buffalo 5-4 in a single game.

Catcher Al Kenders ruined a no-hitter for Kreutzer in the fifth inning when he got a single for the first Arkansas hit.

Arkansas only run scored in the seventh on two singles, a wild pitch and an infield out by Kenders.

Indianapolis scored three runs in the third on four straight singles with two out and an error by Johnny Upham. They iced the game in the sixth on a two-run homer by Charlie Smith.
